

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method and apparatus for improving a hearing aid fitting situation by means of providing a higher degree of user involvement in the fitting process, the method including simultaneously visualizing for a patient and/or a hearing professional the actual input and the setting of the hearing aid transfer function or the hearing threshold of the individual.